All other material is reproduced by BOHS under perpetual, non-exclusive licence from the original authors/Occupational Hygiene Training Association (2015).

BOHS would like to acknowledge the contributions of volunteers for the Occupational Hygiene Training Association (OHTA), as listed in the acknowledgements of the manuals, including members of the British Occupational Hygiene Society and Brian Davies, OHTA founding Chief Editor.

BOHS would like to further acknowledge BP and GSK for funding the compilation and writing of the original materials and securing the licence to distribute them. The Society is indebted to Roger Alesbury and Steve Bailey, who as Presidents and Council Members of the British Occupational Hygiene Society:

- sought permission to use BOHS's modular scheme and syllabi for licensed use by OHTA;
- secured funding from BOHS, AIOH and IOHA to set up ohlearning.com;
- secured administrative support from BOHS to support the authoring, editing and setting up of OHTA training;
- secured approval from the BOHS Council to incorporate the Occupational Hygiene Training Association and to license it BOHS intellectual property under contract.
